BUNNY UPDATE!

This will mean nothing to you unless you read the February Newsletter, but we have a Bun-Bun update! Bunny was the February FUBAR Feature. When we last spoke, Bunny was under suspicion for being incontinent. Booooooo Bun-Bun! However, The Bunny is NOT incontinent. YEA! Nor does she get yeast infections, like her prior owner claimed, nor is she as blind as a bat anymore. Go Bunny! So, how is this possible? Here's the scoop. If you recall the Bunster has one questionable eye. She came to us with eye drops, but they were useless antibiotics. Bunny didn't have an eye infection, she had dry eye. We got her prescription medication that helps the eye produce more tears and now Bunny can SEE! Well, that may be overly optimistic, but she sees better than she did!

Bunny has started to play with other dogs, she zips (slowly) around the house now, and she has learned to demand to be put on your lap. The so-called yeast infections were skin irritations from her piddle getting absorbed by the hair on her legs and tummy (Bun-bun is what we call a Low Squatter), which irritated her skin. So, we clipped her hair, dripped drops in her eye and she's got some of her spunk back! HOORAY BUNNY!

You NEED Bunny in Your Home!

MARCH'S FUBAR

(Favorite Unwell, But (still) Alive Rescue)

Meet Chuy, now named Guppy. Guppy is a male, 12+ year old Shih Tzu that looks a lot like Bunny, but they are not related or even from the same place. Guppy is still receiving medical care and is not yet available for adoption. He has one working eye, arthritis pretty much everywhere, he limps, and refuses to gain weight. Vet says at his age the liver and kidneys just don't work like they used to and that keeps The Gupster from gaining weight. He lost TWO pounds in January, but we held him to a .2 loss in February! WHEEE! He will remain under our careful watch until his weight stabilizes. He's incredibly sweet and in a fight for his life. His vet bills take a toll on our resources so please consider a donation to Guppy's veterinarian bills.

At www.benefitwines.com, you can do two of your very favorite things at the same time: purchase wine and contribute to SAFE! Just go to the website, search by charity name and click on Saving Animals From Euthanasia. The wines are vegan friendly and Bunny approved!

This is Mickey. Seriously, why is he still in foster care? Who's not paying attention?! Mickey is a 12 year+, male Chihuahua who is brilliantly TAN! Who doesn't love the color tan? Beaches are tan. Cardboard is tan. So is a lot of furniture. Tan is AWESOME! Don't miss out on awesome Mickey. Call today!

What? ANOTHER Tan dog?! What are the odds of having two fabulously TAN dogs in foster care at the same time? This is a special treat and so unexpected!! Meet Romeo (right). Also a male Chihuahua. 8+ years.

Now, for a rare treat! A BEIGE dog!! Who knew they came in tan AND beige?? Meet Willie (left). He's, ummm, a Chihuahua!! And, ahh, he's also male. He's distinctly beige, no tan in him at all, which makes him unique and highly desirable as a pet. Act fast before he's snatched up by someone who really appreciates the rarity of, well, beige.

TIME FOR CATS!

We can't forget our lovable feline companions. Here's our feature cat!

Meet Helios/Joey. (I dunno). He's a 6+ year, male, Abyssinian cat who is (oh, no!) BEIGE!

Seriously, people, how can I be expected to work under these conditions?

So, yeah, beige, wheeeee! Who can resist a cat that blends with your carpeting? Think of the fun YOU can have with beige (then let me know so I can add it to this newsletter).
